

Prof. Peter Pearson

Professor Peter Pearson BA MSC PhD is based at Cardiff University. He directs the Low Carbon Research Institute of Wales (LCRI), a collaboration of specialist research teams in six Welsh universities. He previously directed the Centre for Energy Policy and Technology (ICEPT) at Imperial College London, where he is a Visiting Professor. Since the 1980s his research has addressed past and prospective long-run energy transitions and their energy and environmental policy implications. He has been Chair of the British Institute of Energy Economics, VP for Publications of the IAEE, a member of the European Commission's Framework Programme Advisory Group on Energy, acted as Specialist Adviser to a UK House of Commons Select Committee on Renewable Energy, and since 2001 has been an expert adviser/consultant to the World Bank's Inspection Panel.